

New Website is LIVE!

The website for the San Francisco Project is now live and you can find it at: <http://thesfproject.org>! You can find out all the information, and stay up to date with what is happening with the project at the site. There's a newsfeed that you can pick up to stay completely current and all of the updates for the project will also be archived at the site as well.

In this issue:

- » New Website is LIVE!
- » Seattle, Boston, NYC
- » Pray it up!

We're very excited to announce the new site as it is the first step towards making this dream a reality! For those of you that have been a part of this email list for a while, you may have noticed a new look in the email. We're completely transitioning away from the Leadership Residency and moving full-gear into the church planting phase. These e-newsletters will begin to reflect that shift. We're so excited and thankful that you have been along in the journey and continue to pray for and support us.

What's Next for the Project? Glad you asked! We're beginning our push to raise support for the San Francisco Project. There is more information about this on the website, but if you would like to support us, or if you know of any churches or organizations that you can connect us with please contact me.

Seattle, Boston, NYC

Throughout the month of April, Aaron travelled to Seattle, Boston and New York City for a whirlwind learning experience! In Seattle, he had the opportunity to network with several people while learning a great deal about the church planting process in a training event called The Art of the Start put on by Phil Claycomb and Nexus. From there Aaron met up with Tracy in Chicago and flew out to Boston to learn from Hank Wilson and the team at Reunion Christian Church, a new church plant situated in the city of Boston. It was a great opportunity to learn from a team that is in the throws of church planting life 1 year after launch.

Aaron then hopped a bus to New York City and spent about a week with Brian Moll and the team of Forefront Church, a three year old church plant situated in the heart of Manhattan. It was a fantastic opportunity to observe and learn about church in a metropolitan setting that shows similarities with San Francisco. This was a fantastic learning trip!

Pray It Up!
